

PAPUA AGRICULTURE DEVELOPMENT ALLIANCE (PADA)

A Public-Private Partnership between USAID and PT Freeport Indonesia
COFFEE ACTIVITIES

Activity:	Support of the Coffee Value Chain in Wamena, Moanemani and the Jayawijaya mountain range.
Locations:	Baliem Valley, Wamena Kamu Valley, Moanemani Hoea and Tsinga villages, Jayawijaya mountain range
Partners:	PT Freeport Indonesia, Baliem Arabica Cooperative (Wamena), Santo Isidorus Cooperative (Moanemani), Amungme Gold, an NGO based in Tsinga and Hoea, and Uskup, Keuskupan Timika (Catholic Church of Timika)
Beneficiaries:	At least 1250 farmers and their families in Wamena, 300 farmers and their families in Moanemani, 456 farmers and their families in Hoea and Tsinga.
Length of Project	Aug. 2007 – Sept. 2009
Funding	USAID: $380,000; Freeport: $994,000 plus $894,000 in-kind contribution
Activity Background:	AMARTA-PADA provides technical assistance, training, and grant funding for the equipment and development of export coffee collection, processing, and marketing pilot projects for the villages of the Baliem and Kamu Valleys surrounding Wamena and Moanemani, as well as the villages of Hoea and Tsinga. Also conducting organic certification process to be completed June, 2009 and RainForest Alliance certification to be completed August, 2009. Three four-wheel drive pickup trucks to be delivered May, 2009 for assistance in coffee procurement and extension activities. Assistance continuing for improved cooperative business planning and management practices to Sept. 2009. A satellite telephone (wartel) system was provided to Moanemani for market communication as well as village use for a fee.
Impact	PADA assistance has resulted in 1800 hectares under new or improved management practices; 22 producer organizations and community based organizations receiving assistance; 7 local agriculture related firms benefitting from USG supported interventions; 900 men and women trained in short-term agriculture sector productivity; 100 percent value change in purchases from smallholder farmers; 11 new technologies or management practices made available for transfer; 2 new surveillance and/or control systems in place for agricultural threats; and 1 public-private partnership formed.

PAPUA AGRICULTURE DEVELOPMENT ALLIANCE (PADA)

A Public-Private Partnership between USAID and PT Freeport Indonesia
FISHERIES ACTIVITIES

Activity:	Support of the Fishery Value Chain in Kokonao, Papua
Locations:	Kokonao, Papua
Partners:	AMARTA, PT Freeport Indonesia, Koperasi Serba Usaha Maria Bintang Laut (Cooperative), and Uskup, Keuskupan Timika (Catholic Church of Timika)
Beneficiaries:	At least 600 fishermen and their families in Kokonao District, Papua, with potential to benefit 600 additional families who may become employed in fishing activities through USG assistance.
Length of Project	Aug. 2007 - Sept. 2009
Funding	USAID: $380,000 Freeport: $994,000 plus $894,000 in-kind contribution
Activity Background:	The Kokonao fishing village was provided a 3000 kgs per day ice production plant to improve fish preservation and marketing, as well as a motorized boat for transport to Timika market. Local inhabitants also trained in improved crab collection and processing, and construction of boats and other equipment from fiberglass to prevent forest destruction. Assistance is provided for cooperative business planning and management, which will be continued to Sept. 2009. A satellite telephone (wartel) system was also provided for aiding in market communication, as well as other village use for a fee.
Impact	22.6 tons of fish caught and sold by fishermen for a value of Rp 249 million to date; 1 new producer organizations or community based organizations receiving assistance; 9 agriculture related firms benefitting from USG supported interventions; 185 men and women have received short-term agriculture (aquaculture) sector productivity training; 100 percent value change in purchases from smallholder of targeted commodities; 11 new technologies or management practices made available for transfer; 1 new public-private partnership formed.

PAPUA AGRICULTURE DEVELOPMENT ALLIANCE (PADA)

A Public-Private Partnership between USAID and PT Freeport Indonesia
Livestock and Crops ACTIVITIES

Activity:	Support of the Livestock and Rice Value Chain in Agimuga District, Papua
Locations:	Aramsolki Village, Papua
Partners:	AMARTA, PT Freeport Indonesia, and Uskup, Keuskupan Timika (Catholic Church of Timika)
Beneficiaries:	At least 216 farmers and their families in the Agimuga District, Papua, with potential to employ 340 additional families who may benefit from replication of the Aramsolki pilot project.
Length of Project	Aug. 2007 – Sept. 2009
Funding	USAID: $380,000; Freeport: $994,000 plus
Activity Background:	Technical assistance, training, and grant funding is provided to the village of Aramsolki for the introduction of production of rice for village food security, and improved animal husbandry practices for swine production for ceremonial and meat consumption, as well as provision of transportation (tractor and boat) for marketing of products locally and to Timika. A satellite telephone (wartel) system was also provided for aiding in market communication, as well as other village use for a fee.
Impact	30 hectares of rice under improved technologies or management practices; 50 swine under improved technologies or management practices; 2 community based organizations formed and receiving assistance; 4 agriculture related firms benefitting directly from supported interventions; 200 farmers men and women have received short-term agriculture sector productivity training; 8 new technologies or management practices made available for transfer; 1 public-private partnership formed.